A Pearland Yarn Shop Offers a Hands-On Starting Point for Knitting and Crochet

Southern Purl Fiber Co. lists yarn, tools and beginner lessons at its Pearland shop. Its class pages showed "Sold out" during research, so check directly for current availability before making plans.

For Pearland residents curious about knitting or crochet, Southern Purl Fiber Co. brings yarn, basic tools and beginner instruction together in one local shop. Its website lists supplies including knitting needles, crochet hooks, kits and patterns, along with introductory classes in both crafts.

The two activities use yarn in different ways: knitting works with loops held on needles, while crochet forms stitches with a hook. Southern Purl's beginner knitting class description says students learn casting on, knitting, purling and binding off. The crochet class description covers chain, single crochet and double crochet. Both listings say the classes take about two hours and provide materials, making them a possible starting point for someone who wants guided practice rather than choosing tools and a pattern alone.

There is an important planning detail: when the class pages were checked on November 3, 2026, both displayed "Sold out," and no upcoming class dates were visible. The listings showed a price of $45 each, but that should not be treated as confirmation of current availability or price. The shop also lists private instruction in knitting, crochet or embroidery in half-hour increments, with a displayed starting price of $25; its current scheduling and terms should likewise be checked with the business.

The shop's website lists its address as 1910 Country Place Parkway, Suite 158, Pearland, and its hours as Wednesday through Sunday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Those details, like the class information, come from the business's own pages. Check the site or contact the shop before traveling, especially if your visit depends on a lesson being available.

For a first visit, a practical approach is to decide whether you want to browse supplies or find instruction, then confirm what is currently offered. If booking a beginner class becomes possible, its listed curriculum provides a clear basis for choosing: needles and knitting fundamentals on one side, hook-based crochet stitches on the other. Southern Purl's website provides the shop's current product and lesson listings at southernpurlfiberco.com.
